"...a remarkable piece of work ... a precious pedagogic tool... a textbook, unique of its type, at least in the French language." – Pascal Ancel, Revue des contrats 2007, pp. 229 ff

"Nothing comparable exists in the French educational literature... This book must set a new standard for the teaching of comparative law. The book and the way it is set out reaffirm how useful the American-style 'case-book' can be for European-facing legal education.... In publishing this book, the author has provided a more than highly worthwhile service towards the creation of a truly European legal education." – Filippo Ranieri, Zeitschrift für Gemeinschaftsprivatrecht (GPR) 2007, pp. 220 f.

(reviews of the French language edition)

A guide to the principles of European and international contract law enhanced by a practical approach designed to promote learning by doing.

Students are introduced to comparative methodology by working through a series of scenarios to be solved, expertly underpinned throughout by extracts from relevant cases and materials, both in their original languages and in an English translation. By facilitating direct comparison of source materials, the author guides the student on how to identify and deal with the inherent similarities and differences in contract law and practice in diverse jurisdictions, with a focus on the major European states, the USA, and China amongst others.

This book is the ideal companion to those studying international and comparative law, particularly those wishing to go on to careers in cross-border legal or business practice who need to familiarise themselves with real-world materials as well as understanding the essential underlying theory and concepts.

Thomas Kadner Graziano is Professor in the Department of Private International Law at the University of Geneva, Switzerland. He has taught in 2007-08 as Visiting Professor at the University of Exeter and at the University of Florida and is a Fellow of the European Centre of Tort and Insurance Law (ECTIL) in Vienna. His research interests include European and comparative private law, comparative conflict of laws, German, US and English law as well as cross-border litigation.

"this excellent and ground-breaking book... is one of the most stimulating introductions to comparative law in recent years." – Andrew Tettenborn, Bracton Professor of Law, University of Exeter
